WASTE NOT WAY FOR PROSPERITY SAYS ECONOMIST

WISCONSIN ECONOMIST DECLARES ECONOMY OF PLENTY, NOT SCARCITY, IS PLAN NOW NEEDED.

Philadelphia, Dec. 29—(AP)—Prosperity must come ultimately from production, not from destruction and inaction, Prof. B. H. Hibbard of the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture said in a paper presented here last night before a joint meeting of the American Economic and American Farm Economic associations.

His paper was entitled "a long range view of national agricultural policy." In it he discussed the multiple causes and results of the Roosevelt farm policies and presented what he believed would be the major long time phases of a national policy for agriculture.

Need Positive Program

"The New Deal," he said, "needs to be positive more than negative. We will not complain of the campaigns of negation provided, at the time of their prosecution, there is a comparable amount of talent and energy expended on the positive side of recovery.

"To work mainly toward reduction of output in the interest of scarcity, and this in turn in the interest of price compelling an impoverished public to pay a little more for certain elementary goods than they have been worth during the past months is probably commendable, but it alone savors of a defeatist philosophy. Prosperity must come ultimately from production, not from destruction and inaction.

Larger Scale Exchange

"A national policy of agriculture will involve the revival of an exchange of goods, at home and abroad, on a renewed and enlarged scale; a thorough going reform in taxation, and a land policy suited to the times.

The main effort of the government in behalf of the farmer is to pull production down to a point comparable with that of industry but the methods are the opposite of those employed by industry, Prof. Hibbard said. While business took the tools of operat on away from the less efficient, the government, under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, is undertaking to reduce the output of all in like proportion

May Not Work

While this may work moderately well when prices are desperately low, there is no assurance, that, when prices come back to the point of satisfactory returns to farmers in general, productive land will remain unharvested, or that a similar proportion of cows will be turned into low priced beef, or that feeds will be left in barns and pastures unconsumed, Prof. Hibbard said.

The speaker termed fallacious the argument that prosperity for all depends upon the restoration of purchasing power to the farmer alone. About a quarter of the population of the country is on farms and, because of the large number involved, should be given a chance to prosper but a dollar spent or invested by a farmer will not mean more than a dollar spent or invested by a man in the city, Prof. Hibbard said.

"If shortage of food is holding mankind in leash, then indeed the farmer becomes the key man," he said. "If we are not short of food, and we are not, then the breakdown of industry is not to be blamed on the farmer, nor is his recovery possible, in any large way, until and unless manufacturing and trading are again likewise restored. Prosperous farming with business in the dumps is unthinkable."

Tariff Revision

Prof. Hibbard listed tariff revision as one of the most important phases of a national policy for agriculture, and said "something on a larger scale than trading a bit of our surplus farm produce for Burgundy . . . is going to be needed in restoring foreign trade."

"When the time comes, as come it must, to raze instead of raise, our tariff barriers, not wholly, but in part, the farmer must be represented at the council table, since it is largely by past tariff manipulations that the farmers' buying power has always been, low in comparison with that of the people to whom he has sold," he said.

"World trade will some day be revived. It remains to be seen whether it will be after the dreary years promised by ultra-nationalism, or whether we have statesmen able to cope with the question, difficult though it be."

New Land Policy

Contending the potential output of agricultural production is easily 25 per cent greater than at present on the same area, Prof. Hibbard said a new land policy is imperative. He said the new national agricultural policy should promote zoning in country districts and should remove many farmers from "hopeless to tolerable environment."

"The time has come when we should recognize the imperative necessity of creating a new Public Domain," he said. "It will be enlarged automatically by additions coming through tax delinquency, not a desirable means. It will, and should be, enlarged through purchase from stranded and impoverished settlers. The government is responsible for having so many of these tragedies on its hands, and its domain."

"Prof. Hibbard expressed the belief that the creation of the new national agricultural policy will mean the building up of political power for and by the farmers. The power will probably come through the federation of strong organizations and will constitute a balance of power between the two traditional political parties, he said.

MILWAUKEE TO OWN UTILITIES

COUNCIL VOTES $28,000,000 BOND BUDGET TO PROVIDE FOR CONSTRUCTION OF SEVERAL UTILITIES.

Milwaukee, Dec. 29—(AP)—Milwaukee was definitely committed to a program of public ownership of utilities today as a result of the common council's endorsement of a $28,600,000 bond budget for 1934.

While nonpartisan members objected vigorously to the program sponsored by the city's veteran Socialist mayor, Daniel W. Hoan, they were outnumbered and outvoted in a three hour council session, which finally approved the bond budget as a whole by a vote of 24 to 8.

The program provides for a $15,000,000 power plant, a $6,000,000 housing and slum clearance project, a $4,600,000 filtration plant and $3,000,000 for miscellaneous utilities. The sum raised for miscellaneous utilities, nonpartisans predicted, will be used partly to prepare for a municipal milk plant.

There are two hurdles still to be cleared, however, before the bonds actually can be issued. Separate ordinances covering each of the projects must be approved, nonpartisans pointed out, and the federal government must act on applications for loans and grants on the proposed projects.

The council also approved a $29,419,000 regular budget to finance city services next year. This was $2,065,000 below the 1933 budget and $10,000,000 below the all time peak budget of 1930.

The $3,500 fund for the upkeep of Milwaukee's mounted police, which was eliminated by Socialists on the board of estimates, was reinstated in the budget by a vote of 15 to 12.

Pine Grove Man Is Hurt on CWA Job

Bancroft— Lewis Young, town of Pine Grove, sustained a broken rib Tuesday while working on the fire lane about five miles southwest of Bancroft. Mr. Lewis was preparing to place a charge of dynamite to blow up the frozen earth where the fire lane is being dug, when about two yards of frozen earth caved in on him. The rest of the crew rescued him from the avalanche of earth, and took him to a physician.

CROP REDUCTION PROGRAM TO GET UNDER WAY SOON

ter the contracts have been approved as possible and the remaining 15 cents per bushel is to be paid next November. Payments for the marketed hogs are to be made after the animals have been sold.

Signers of the agreements select their own local or township allotment groups to consist of not more than three members and the local groups in turn select the county group, likewise to consist of three members. The local tie-up permits close supervision and is expected to reduce the cost of administration.

District Groupings

To facilitate operation of the law, counties have been placed in districts in charge of a supervisor named by the state. The grouping determined upon by the extension division of the college of agriculture is:

Polk, Barron, St. Croix, Dunn, Chippewa, Eau Claire, Pepin and Pierce counties in charge of I. F. Hall; Clark, Marathon, Wood, Portage, Juneau, Adams, Wausau, Marquette and Green Lake counties in charge of J. B. Hayes; Buffalo, Trempealeau, Jackson, Monroe, La-Crosse, Vernon, Richland and Crawford counties in charge of George M. Briggs; Sauk, Columbia, Grant, Iowa, Dane, Lafayette and Green counties in charge of James Lacey; Jefferson, Waukesha, Milwaukee, Rock, Walworth, Racine and Kenosha counties in charge of A. H. Wright; Winnebago, Calumet, Manitowoc, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, Dodge, Washington and Ozaukee counties in charge of R. E. Vaughn; Waupaca, Outagamie, Brown, Kewaunee, Door, Shawano, Oconto and Marinette counties in charge of A. C. Hoffman.

Little Corn Surplus

The department announced that few Wisconsin farmers will benefit under the administration plan to loan money on the basis of 45 cents per bushel of corn as less than one per cent of the corn produced in the state is placed on the market. The opportunity to borrow money on corn is limited to the corn producing areas of Columbia, Dane, Green, Grant, Rock, Sauk and Iowa counties. Applications for the loans must be made no later than March 1 and all loans will mature on August 1, 1934.

The borrowing farmer must agree to cooperate with the plan to reduce acreage and supply of marketable hogs before he secures government aid. Warehouse boards are to be named in the various counties and they will be in charge of the inspection and sealing of the corn used as collateral when the money is secured from banks or cooperatives. Warehouse or elevator receipts designating the quantity and quality of the corn must be submitted when the loans are made.

Pending the designation of the warehouse boards by the department of agriculture, county agricultural committees and local allotment groups are in charge of the operation of loan plan.

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

New York—It was what the society editors like to call a "smart" audience that attended the premiere of "Jezebel" the other evening. The tail-coats and ermine wraps, if placed end to end, could extend the length of a Bowery breadline . . .

As they left their limousines and taxis to enter the theater between closely-pressing lines of celebrity-hunters, most of the customers moved self-consciously, with noses tilted in the direction of the marquee. But they checked their dignity with the man who tore their tickets, and inside they became celebrity-hunters themselves.

Most of their attention was directed at Miss Kay Francis. They crowded around her, gawked at her, gushed at meeting her. When she went to her seat a number of people followed her down the aisle and stood and stared at her. Balcony patrons came downstairs for a peep.

Even after the curtain went up, and Miss Miriam Hopkins was doing her capable best to act for them, dozens of those in the front rows kept turning around to look at Miss Francis. Miss Francis, in turn, didn't seem to be having a very good time.

Covering the Lobby Front

There are several objects to the game of Broadway first-nighting. One is to hail as many as possible of the attending producers, actresses and authors . . . An author doesn't count as much because he usually is an ordinary-looking fellow who might be mistaken for a balcony spectator strayed from his $2.20 precinct.

Another part of the game is to cover as much ground as possible. If by merely elbowing and shouldering and saying mechanically, "Oh, I BEG your pardon!" you can work your way from one side of the theater to the other during an intermission, you are pretty good and are likely to be considered for a place on the first team next season . . . However, if you are hopelessly stymied by some group of notables whom you don't dare kick on the shins it is permissible to scream a greeting to any and all friends within a distance of 50 feet. In this case, though, it is what you yell that counts. Just hollering "Hello, you old so-and-so!" or "Yoo-hoo, darling!" marks you at once as being hopelessly unoriginal. The remark either should be daring enough to make everyone turn and look at you, or clever enough to accomplish the momentary discomfiture of the person greeted.

The Thing to Say

One of the exciting things about first-nighting is that somebody is always saying something extraordinary. There was the lady, for example, who kept directing ingratiating remarks over half a dozen intervening heads at the obviously disinterested back of a certain actress who is well know hereabout for her dislike of swank and her bluntness of speech.

"I said," shouted the lady for the third time, "that you look just TOO, TOO ravishing tonight, my deah!"

The actress finally turned slowly and leveled an appraising glance at her overstuffed, bejeweled admirer. Finally she said: "You look like hell. Are you ill?"

The game becomes more exciting as curtain-time nears, because then the amateurs and the exhausted olsters and a few people who are anxious to see the show retire from the milling crush at the back of the theater and find their seats . . . A split minute before the lights are dimmed, the best-dressed and most beautiful women then sweep down the aisles . . . But your true first-nighters will wait until the curtain is up before making a concerted rush for their seats. The more people one has to disturb in getting to one's place, and the more cringing toes one has a chance to step on, the better opportunity one has to display one's good breeding by murmuring gracious little apologies.

Eagles' Christmas Party Successful

The children's Christmas party given by the Eagles at the lodge hall on First street north last Saturday was the most successful ever held by the organization, according to A. C. Miller, secretary.

Approximately 250 children attended. Santa Claus was on hand and distributed candy, nuts, apples and popcorn balls to the little guests. A program of Christmas songs and recitations was put on by the children, and the afternoon was a happy one for all present.

Poem by Mrs. E. B. Read, Visitor At Rapids, Published

Members of Chapter O of the P. E. O. Sisterhood, this city, and other local women who attended the Oriental tea at the home of Mrs. Stanton Mead last fall will be interested in a reprint of a poem written by Mrs. Elizabeth Badley Read which appears in the December issue of Good Housekeeping.

Mrs. Read, was guest speaker at the tea and entertained her listeners with a discourse on the people of India. Fulfilling her plans which she told of while here, Mrs. Read is sailing January 1 for India to make her home there.

"On Christmas Eve" is the title of the poem which reads as follows:

Dear old house, your memory, in a garden set,
Always bloom again for me in the mignonette;
You are drowsing in the dew with the purple phlox,
You are always nodding through rows of hollyhocks.
But at Christmas, haunting me like a wistful ghost,
You are always taunting me with the things I've lost—
Are your windows, all aglow — candles on each sill—
Lighting neighbors as they go whistling up the hill?
Are there stockings hanging where mine used to be?
Spruce and holly everywhere—and a Christmas tree?
Will the carolers go by looking for your light?
Dear old house—I wish that I were there tonight!

Sixty members of the Alumni Association of the Wautoma high school attended the annual banquet and meeting at the Hotel Chase Tuesday evening. After a delicious six-thirty dinner the following program, with Rev. J. J. Nurenberg acting as toastmaster, was enjoyed: Clarinet duet, Allene Russell and Mary Jane Hunt; French horn duet, Joanna Walker and John Paul Jones; remarks, Principal G. E. Dafoe; president's address, Dorothy Diehlman; cornet duet, Curtis Van Allen and George Wooderick; response, Elizabeth Wandrey. Rev Nurenberg called on several members of the association for short talks, not scheduled on the program.

At the business meeting of the constitution was amended to the effect that one of the former officers should be elected to meet with the new officers to assist them in making plans for the annual meeting. Miss Mary Kileen was the member of last year's officers elected on this committee. Other officers were elected as follows: Miss Inez Keup, president; Robert Beck, vice president; Layton Searles, secretary; Miss Marian McGriar, treasurer.

The meeting was followed by a dance at Harmon's hall with a New London orchestra furnishing the music.

Miss Mary Kileen acted as president in place of Miss Dorothy Diehlman who was unable to be present.—y.

A committe of the Wautoma Woman's club and Lions club met last Friday and prepared twenty baskets of food for the needy in and around Wautoma. Sixty cans of fruit and vegetables had been donated by members of the two clubs and the Eastern Star in addition to the cash donations by the former organizations. Baskets in town were delivered through the kindness of Ira P. Goult, manager of the Mercantile company. Both clubs have oben spreading cheer in this manner for several years.—y.

Extra Thinks for Dressing Tables

Besides the salient beauty preparations, nearly every woman needs a few little "extras" on her dressing table.

Even though you use a conservative, neutral-toned nail polish for ordinary purposes, sometimes it's fun to wear a vivid polish for formal occasions. You can get a tiny bottle of some exotic shade and keep it for just such evening parties.

Now and then a blemish appears on the best complexions. Providing there is nothing organically wrong with you and you're sure that medicine isn't what you need, why not ask your doctor to recommend a healing skin cream or lotion which he thinks will clear up tiny pimples and the like.

Liquid powder, the same tone as your skin, is helpful when it comes to making up shoulders and arms for evening. It is less trouble than using a foundation lotion and then putting powder on over that.

A small bottle of nail bleach is useful too. When you notice a discolored nail or a bit of hard-to-remove dirt under a nail, then a bleach comes in handy.

If you want your eyebrows to be shiny, keep a small jar of vaseline on your dressing table. Rub a bit of it on your eyebrow brush and brush it right into your brows.

Vincent Hill of Cranmoor called on friends here during the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Westfahl and children of Cranmoor were Christmas dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Severson.

Ray Brown arrived here from Illinois, Friday evening to spend the holidays with his family.

The Christmas program held at the school house Friday evening was a decided success, and a credit to the teacher, Miss Duckey, and also to the pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Kulilka and children and brother Paul Kulika arrived from Waukesha Friday evening to spend Christmas with Mrs. Kulilka's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Keenan.

Arline Downing was taken to Riverview hospital at Wisconsin Rapids, Friday morning, where she had her tonsils removed. She also had some teeth removed and returned to her home here Saturday.

Gertrude Downing and friend of Milwaukee spent Christmas with her mother, Mrs. Bertha Downing.

Mrs. Walter Wood of Wisconsin Rapids called on her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hiles, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Geise spent Sunday with relatives at Wisconsin Rapids.

Mrs. Gehre, who has been living here with her daughter, Mrs. Avery Hiles, the last few months has gone to Sherwood to visit at the home of her son.

F. W. Roulee and family spent Christmas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ward of Nekoosa.

Mrs. Amelia Miller went to Edgar to spend the holidays with her sister, Rose Hoenish.

OBSERVATIONS AND OPINIONS

There has long been a saying that when the editor has nothing else to write about there is always the weather. We do not propose to go into any voluminous discussion of the weather. The less said the better but we can not refrain from observing that the weather, outside of the misery which is brought by extremely low temperatures, brings a great amount of tragedy into every community. We are thinking of the fatal accidents which have recently cost the lives of a number of Central Wisconsin people through fires in their homes. All this was brought about by an attempt to keep warm in houses by overheating stoves. This heavy toll is far too great. Peole must be more careful in times of extremely cold weather.

Before leaving the weather, we must remark about the brave way men engaged in municipal, relief and CWA projects continue their work during these bitter cold days. Does it not prove that men will undergo much human suffering in order to make an honest living? Does it also not prove beyond all doubt the wisdom of CWA and all public works projects? The necessity for providing men work is unquestionably apparent.

One can not pass over the CWA, the public works program which made Christmas 1933 far more happy and memorable than any Christmas during the depression, without added comment. The employment of hundreds of thousands of men all over the United State and the release of millions of dollars before Christmas gave an impetus to business which will have a lasting effect upon the whole business structure to say nothing of the wonderful effect upon the happiness of the people, many of whom received a pay check for the first time in months and years.

The big danger in the CWA program seems to have been wiped out. We refer to the attention being given to the elimination of those from the CWA rolls who were not entitled to employment and who by being on the payrolls keep those who are in need from filling the places. The Civil Works program was designed to aid the unemployed and does not include men who have businesses and other occupations in public capacities or in private business or industry.

The general public opinion is that every worthy person should be cared for in public works projects. It is unthinkable that men with adequate incomes, those who are not in want or those who have family connections which make their comfortable support possible should be continued on public works jobs. There is an exception to this statement and we believe it represents the attitude of the CWA authorities. There is a disposition to take men here and there as supervisors whose experience and training qualifies them to see that large projects are carried out with efficiency and according to correct engineering requirements. On such large projects the possibility of labor for a large number of men is dependent upon the proper supervision. Hence where one man as supervisor is employed, although he may not need that employment, several hundred or more men are thereby employed. Such exceptions are surely justifiable. Where the best judgment of the CWA directors prevails in such exceptional cases there should be no criticism leveled at the directors or the men thus selected.

Word comes from Washington of intentions to expand the RFC to greater usefulness in the processes of recovery. It is proposed to use the funds of this corporation to finance operations of railroads and to make direct loans to industries. If money is the life blood which takes the stagnation out of some of the industries, there can be no doubt of the wisdom to broaden the program of the RFC to include aid to industry, which in turn opens up opportunities for the manpower of the nation, now long idle in many branches of industry. The other day, this column advanced the thought of use of RFC funds to finance the Eau Pleine water storage projects. Direct labor in the construction and stabilized labor in the industries dependent upon a steady source of water supply would result from the project.

Superior weight and strength gave Gus Schoenlein, known to wrestling fans as Americus, a victory by straight falls over Ed (Strangler) Lewis of Nekoosa in a match at Chicago last evening. Americus won the first fall in 5 minutes 10 seconds with a cross body hold, after he had momentarily stunned his opponent by throwing him to the mat with a thud. Americus took the second fall after a bitter struggle of 50 minutes with another cross body hold.

HEALTH

You Needn't Pay Much For a Good Diet

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Of all the foods that you can buy, cereals represent the most economical part of your diet. They provide energy values in the form of carbohydrates and they provide proteins for building and repairing tissue. If the germ or the bran also is included, the cereals provide vitamin B and iron, in addition.

Dietetic authorities, therefore, advise that cereal grains provide as much as one-half of the total calories in your diet. If, however, they form more than one-third of the total, dietetic authorities recommend that the bran and germ be retained, because otherwise minerals and vitamins will have to come from other food substances.

I have repeatedly emphasized the importance of milk in every diet. You should drink at least one pint of milk every day and a quart is optimal. If you take 3000 calories of food a day, 12 per cent of your diet will come from milk.

Among the vegetables and fruits essential in a well-balanced diet, carrots, tomatoes and the citrus fruits are most important. These should comprise at least 12 to 15 per cent of the total amount of calories you take in.

If you take cod liver oil regularly, you may cut down on the total amount of butter you use, but if not, you should take in enough butter to provide you with vitamin A.

The sugars should comprise at least 10 per cent of the total calories, used principally as a flavoring, although they are, of course, a great factor in contributing fuel values.

Finally, your diet must include eggs, cheese, meat and other flesh foods, making an additional 15 per cent, the natural quality of these depending largely on their cost.

A good diet for each day can be made up at moderate cost along the following lines:

1. Foods and cereal grains—1 1-3 cups rolled oats, cooked; 8 half-inch slices of white bread; 2 rolls and 2 scant tablespoons of flour.
2. Whole milk—one pint.
3. Vegetables and fruits — 1 medium orange; 1 medium apple; 2 medium potatoes; 1-2 cup tomatoes; 1-2 head lettuce.
4. Fats and oils — 4 tablespoons of butter; 1-2 tablespoon of olive oil.
5. Sugars, sirups, preserves, etc.—about 5 tablespoons.
6. Eggs, cheese, meats and other flesh foods—2 1-2 ounces of lean beef, cooked; 1 ounce lean ham; 1 1-2 eggs.

A diet of this kind can be made as attractive to the appetite as one much more varied, depending on the way in which the food is prepared. It may be served in a different form each day.

The use of crackers with soup, raisins with rice pudding, lemon with fish, and similar accessories, will do much to make any diet interesting and appetizing.

Where could the government apply funds on a safer loan basis than to these Wisconsin industries and still encourage a project with such direct benefits to thousands of people?

We may envy Illinois for some things, but Wisconsin certainly can be thankful we have no such nuisance as the Illinois sales tax.

OUT OUR WAY

By Williams

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN
©1933 NEA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAVID BANNISTER undertakes to find out who killed TRACY KING, orchestra leader. Bannister is an author and former newspaper man. He works on the murder case with GAINEY, star reporter on the Post.

Among those suspected are JULIET FRANCE, blond, pretty and known to have visited King shortly before his death; HERMAN SCURLACH who wrote King a threatening letter; and JOE PARROTT, down-and-out vaudeville actor. It is also known that MELVINA HOLLISTER, middle-aged spinster, had quarreled with King recently.

AL DRUGAN, friend of King's, is found dead in a wrecked automobile.

Bannister persuades the police chief to let Juliet come to his aunt's home, ostensibly as a guest, on the theory that if the girl believes herself free they can learn more about her.

Juliet begs Bannister to "stop trying to find out who killed Tracy King." Later that day Melvina Hollister is found dead. Bannister rushes to the hotel where she and her brother lived and learns she was strangled. Matthew Hollister is hysterical and demands that the police protect him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIX

Bannister paused to buy a paper from a newsboy, glanced at the headlines, and then went on with the newspaper tucked under his arm. Buying the newspaper had been a matter of habit. Already he knew the facts those columns contained—all that the police had learned, or been willing to disclose, about the death of Melvina Hollister.

Those facts were meager enough. The finger print experts had been unable to add anything at all to the solution of the mystery. The only prints in the apartment clear enough to be read were those of Miss Hollister herself and her brother.

Servants and tenants of the hotel had been questioned about events the afternoon before. No one could recall seeing anyone suspicious there. Mrs. Russell Kennebec, who lived across the hall from the Hollisters, had reported hearing voices, one of which she thought was Miss Hollister's, some time during the afternoon. Investigation had disclosed that between 3 and 3.30 a boy had delivered laundry at the apartment. The boy, whose name was John Gregory, told police he had brought the laundry, as he always did each week. He said Miss Hollister had checked over the list to be sure everything had been returned, paid him and added (as she often had) that the price of laundry was "highway robbery." So far as could be learned, this boy was the last person to see Melvina Hollister alive. He reported that she had not seemed disturbed and there was nothing unusual in her manner. Apparently the police questioning was the first the boy had learned of the murder.

Efforts were being made to trace the ownership of the silk scarf with which Miss Hollister had been strangled. There was a photograph of the scarf on the front page of the newspaper. It was a black scarf with narrow white stripes, grouped together at intervals of an inch or more. The scarf appeared to be an old one. There was no mark of any sort on it.

The time of Miss Hollister's death had been set indefinitely as "between three and five o'clock."

Matthew Hollister's story that he had been out of the building at that time had been partially corroborated. The clerk at the Shelby Arms remembered seeing Hollister leave the hotel early in the afternoon and saw him return a few minutes before he ran downstairs for help.

Nothing had been taken from the apartment, eliminating the possibility that robbery could have been the motive for the crime.

Those were the facts. Bannister was puzzling over them, as he had been for several hours, when he heard his name spoken. He looked up and saw a woman coming toward him.

"David—David Bannister!" she said, "You haven't forgotten me, have you?"

"Why, of course not, Mrs. Harborough. How do you do."

The woman was short and rather stout. She wore a long coat of brown fur and a brown hat. The hat was tilted slightly, showing the hair beneath to be quite gray.

"Oh, I'm as well as usual," she said. "This time of the year I always have trouble with my rheumatism. How's your aunt?"

"Never better," he assured her.

"That's fine. Tell her I'm coming over to see her some afternoon." Mrs. Harborough was an old friend of Mrs. Hewlett's. For years they had lived side by side and then the Harboroughs had moved to another part of town. Robert Harborough was one of the town's most successful lawyers.

They stood for a few minutes talking casually. Then Mrs. Harborough brought up the subject about which the whole town was buzzing.

"That was such a terrible thing that happened last night!" she said. "Simply terrible! You see I've known Melvina Hollister since she was a girl. I just couldn't believe it when I read about it—"

"It was a horrible crime," Bannister agreed, "and apparently the whole thing's a complete mystery. The police don't seem to have been able to find out much."

"I just can't imagine who could do such a thing!" the woman went on. "Poor Melvina! I don't believe I've seen her a dozen times in the past two years, even though we used to be friends. Now and then I'd meet her shopping and she generally went to church on Sundays. She and her brother. My, it must have been a terrible shock for him!"

"Do you know him?" Bannister asked.

Mrs. Harborough nodded. "We were in the same class in grade school," she said. "Melvina was in the class above. I don't see how Matthew'll be able to get along now that he's left alone. I'm so sorry for him!"

"I saw him yesterday. He seemed pretty badly broken up."

"I should think he would be. All these years since their father and mother died he and Melvina have lived alone. Of course he'll have the money now—"

Something in the woman's tone roused Bannister's interest. "The money?" he repeated.

"Oh, yes. The Hollisters were wealthy, you know. Ezra Hollister made a fortune in real estate years ago. But he did a queer thing before he died. Melvina had stayed home and kept house for her father ever since her mother's death. She was just a girl then. And when Ezra died he left his money to Melvina and Matthew, but it was in some way so that it couldn't be divided and Melvina was to have the managing of it. You see she was older than Matthew and her father always said she had twice the head for business her brother had.

"For some reason Matthew never got on very well with his father. Old Ezra Hollister was more like Melvina—quick to say what was on his mind, sort of hot-headed. Matthew was more easy going and good natured. The money was all invested. I guess Matthew never did like business much. Anyhow, for the past ten years or so he hasn't worked at anything. He and Melvina lived in the big old house out on Franklin street until they sold it a couple of years ago and moved to the Shelby Arms. I didn't think they'd like a hotel apartment but Melvina told me it was lots less work and cheaper too. Melvina was always sort of careful—"

"I've heard that," Bannister said.

"Not that I'd say anything against the dead!" Mrs. Harborough added quickly. "It was her money and she had a right to do what she wanted to with it. That is, it was hers and Matthew's. He'll have quite a fortune now, I imagine. My husband and I were talking about it this morning. Robert said it would probably be around $150,000. I wonder what Matthew will do with all that money. There's no one for him to leave it to."

Bannister asked, "How did Miss Hollister and her brother get along together? Did you know them well enough to know whether or not they ever had any quarrels?"

Mrs. Harborough smiled. "No; many people quarreled with Melvina Hollister," she said. "Melvina was good hearted but she did have a temper. No, I'm sure Matthew never quarreled with her. She was the one who always told him what to do and I guess he did it."

Bannister remembered the afternoon he had encountered Hollister down town. He remembered how the bent shouldered little man had looked at the amber beverage in his glass and said, "I don't drink beer often. Melvina doesn't like it." The 10-cent glass of beer had seemed a rare treat. Bannister remembered that Hollister had said, "I had the radio turned on and the Saxophone Sizzlers were playing. I only listen to the Sizzlers when Melvina isn't there—"

And then his mind flashed back to the Matthew Hollister he had seen last night—a Matthew frightened and shaken, looking years older, who had exclaimed "I'm all alone now. I'm the only one left!"

They had been walking as they talked and had reached the street corner. Mrs. Harborough said, "There's my car coming! Goodbye, David. Be sure to tell your aunt I'm coming to see her—"

She was gone then with a wave of her hand and a smile over her shoulder.

Bannister walked on, head down. Half an hour later, at central headquarters, Lt. Followood Cuttin McNeal led his private office.

McNeal said, "If these newspapers would only lay off for a while it would help. What's Paxton want to jump on us now for? We're doing all we can, aren't we? A man can't do more than that!"

"Paxton thinks you ought to find out who killed Tracy King. He wants to know if Drugan's death was an accident or not. This thing last night—the second murder at the Shelby Arms in two weeks—makes it a lot worse."

"You don't need to tell me that!"

Bannister seated himself on the edge of the desk. "There's something you can tell me," he said. "Are you still convinced gangsters are back of all this?"

McNeal said slowly, "I don't know. Finding that woman last night shoots all my theories to hell! If it was a gang mix-up how could she possibly be in on it? How could—?"

The telephone rang sharply then and McNeal answered. A moment later he announced, "That was the Chief. I've got to go see what he wants."

Bannister arose and followed him out into the hall. He slipped his hand into his coat pocket, felt something there and drew it out. It was the letter he had forgotten to open the night before.

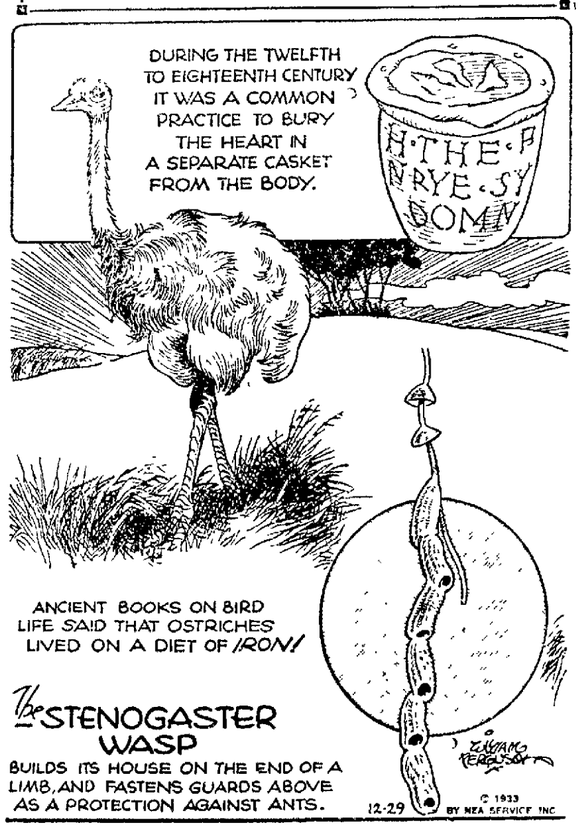
THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson



Early pictures of ostriches showed them calmly swallowing such objects as horseshoes, keys, etc. But the early, imaginative naturalists, who assured us that the birds ate nothing but iron, did not explain where this diet was to be found on the African plains.

BY J. E. F.

Recently was published in this column an article to the fact that this writer expected the local city hockey team to defeat the Marshfield Brewer Maroons in a game between the two squad here on January 14. Further statements were published to the effect that Coach Paul Forberg of the local pucksters, who had referred a Marshfield-Stevens Point game previously, had stated that Marshfield's team was not one to be unduly afraid of.

The publication apparently was the propaganda that started a friendly rivalry between the two teams. It appears, however, that the Brewer Maroons were slighted and they followed with an article that the officiating of the Stevens Point-Marshfield game was so poor (Forberg officiated, lest you forget) that the Brewer Maroons were not able to play the hockey they are truly capable of. Further, that the hockey they exhibited was not "skinny."

It may be well to state, after delving into particulars relating to the Point-Marshfield contest, that this writer has uncovered some rather interesting facts about the contest. Four of the locals players witnessed the hockey game in question, and each will vouch for this statement. The Brewer Maroons, instead of attempting to play "according to Hoyle" in the Point game, had instead strayed away from the regulations that have made ice hockey so famous. They preferred to play their own style, which was merely a good football offensive. One or two of the Marshfield pucksters would proceed the player carrying the puck, on the ice, and for a pass and proceed to slip the puck into the net. Referee Forberg would naturally call the play inside and call a face-off, with an expulsion to the Marshfield coach in case a player can not prevent the puck handler in the direction of the opponents goal, but want to shoot him, or really [illegible]

The play was repeated oft a, each time being called back, the form of interference or whatever one wishes to call it, being absolutely illegal. Then we read about poor officiating on the part of Forberg, one who has refereed and coached high school and city hockey teams in Michigan, and who has turned out winning teams in organized leagues. It is not clear to the local players why a coach of hockey would instruct his players to form interference for the puck handler. For the past three years, such cases have been disallowed and rules pertaining to same are in black and white in the pages of any ice hockey rule book in the country.

Marshfield high school, however, annually turns out splendid hockey squads, under the coaching of the capable Ted Sillman. Ted is holding three practice sessions weekly for his high pucksters, and has a game scheduled with the Wisconsin Rapids high hockey squad (non-conference) for January 4. The game will be a preliminary to a city team game. It will be a feature of the Lions club Winter Frolic program.

Antigo high school basketball team will meet Stevens Point Friday, January 5. It will be the only Valley conference game until the following Friday, when the balance of the cage teams in the Valley will tangle. Wisconsin Rapids will go to Stevens Point, Antigo will travel to Rhinelander, and Marshfield goes to Nekoosa.

The basketball game tonight between the Alumni and the high school should give the local undergraduate cagers all they want as non-conference opposition. With Abel, Omholt, Reinhart, Loock, Hintz, the two Plenkes, Roebush, Rodeghier, David, Kubat, and Klappa to play against, the game should be a high scoring melee. With maybe not much scoring on the high team's part.

* * *

The last three players to perform for the high school in recent years, and who played together, are Reinhart, David, and Abel. The others all have played with each other at one time, or were coached by the same coach.

PLENTY SOPH MATERIAL

Minnesota will have plenty of sophomore gridiron material in 1934, as 107 turned out for freshman football this year.

LEAD 2 LEAGUES AS HALF-SEASON SCHEDULES END

With the Rapids Sport Shop keglers of the Elks Major league resting leisurely on top of the standings at the finis of the first half of the Major league schedule, and with the Fairway Foods bowling team present possessor of the first half championship in the Elks Intermediate league, the second half climb for the top of the standings in both leagues was officially started last night.

The final standings of the first half of the schedules found the various team comparatively even. The weaker teams for the last half have been strengthened by additional bowlers, and it is expected that the last half of the schedules of both teams will find close races for the championship honors.

Exciting Race

The Elks major league sponsored an exciting race, with the winning team, the Rapids Sport Shop, acquiring a .666 percentage to place on top. The Wood County Bank keglers placed second with .638, and the Warsinske keglers team placed third with .555.

The Wood County National Bank keglers are holding the high team mark with 2,961 pins, while the Sport Shop kegler and the S. and S. Clothing Company team are tied for second place in that department with 2,908 pins each. The Bank keglers also hold high team single game mark with 1,053 pins. Bill Stark is [illegible] for the high individual [illegible] match score of 692 pins, and Charlie Nash is [illegible] the high individual single game mark of 266 pins. Marinette Kiwanians Organize Puck Team

Marinette, Wis., Dec. 29—(.P)—A recently organized hockey team to be known as the Marinette Kiwanis Shamrocks will make its debut here next Tuesday night, Jan. 2, in a game with the Michigan Tech sextette. It is planned to make hockey a major sport here this winter if sufficient interest and support is apparent.

3 RECORDS SET IN MINORS ON WHEELAN ALLEY

John Brauer and Leroy Hesse last night copped the honors on the Wheelan alleys, and also set two new Minor league marks. John Brauer spilled games of 193, 223, and 203 pins for a total of 619 pins and a new mark, while Hesse's third single-game attempt of the evening netted him 227 pins, and a new mark in that department.

The La Casino keglers of the Wheelan Minor league last night copped three straight games from the Prentiss-Wabers five-man team, and in so doing established a new team single-game high score of 1,010 pins. The LaCasino keglers made the night a beneficial one by taking two out of three games from The Columbian Squires keglers in their second three game match of the evening. The St. Lawrence club also rolled two matches last evening but they dropped all six games to the Modern Shoe Repair bowlers, and to the S. and S. Specials. In the other match of the evening, the S. and S. Specials rounded out an evening's bowling with three straight games from the Prentiss-Wabers five man team.

Hornbostel May Upset Three Favored Men in Mile Contest

By JIMMY DONAHUE
NEA Service Sports Writer

New York—There has been some noise about Glenn Cunningham, Bill Bonthron, and Gene Venzke and their coming three-way duel to break the world indoor mile and 1500-meter mark. But another guy who has filed entry in the approaching session of board meets may take the measure of the three aforementioned.

He's Charley Hornbostel, the slim, silent exbank clerk from Evansville, Ind., who, running for Indiana University last summer, set a new world mark in the 800-meter run, turning in a 1:50.9 performance.

Hornbostel, spectacles and all, was the only conqueror of Glenn Cunningham outdoors last season. Although he is at his best at the half-mile, it is expected that the Hoosier Hurricane will step off the longer distances with the Cunningham-Venzke-Bonthron trio when the season opens, Jan. 6, with the K. of C. meet at New York.

There is every reason to believe that Venzke's world indoor mile mark of 4:10 will be shattered sometime during the indoor year. With Bonthron, the great Princeton star who broke the world outdoor mile mark running second to Jack Lovelock last summer; Cunningham the Kansas comet who beat Venzke twice on the boards last winter, and Hornbostel all aiming at Venzke's mark, there will be intense rivalry that will add wings to the four flyers' feet.

In addition to the mile and 1500-meter events, which promise to be match races between these four boys, there will be several other races which feature hot competition.

The sprints will be closely contested, Ralph Metcalfe, brilliant Marquette negro who burned the boards last year, will again face tiff competition from Emmett Toppino, Loyola flash, and Eddie Siegel, the New York amateur runner. But Metcalfe's chief rivalry may come from Jesse Owens, another negro boy who flashed across the cinders last year in starring for a Cleveland, Ohio, high school.

Jesse has entered Ohio State and may run against Metcalfe as a freshman. While he has been a sensation over the longer outdoor course of 100 yards, he has yet to show in the shorter board distances of 50 and 60 meters. Being a fast starter, however, he shows promise of being as good in the short sprints as he is over the full 100 yards.

In the pole vault Keith Brown of Yale can look for little competition and, therefore, probably won't set up any new heights. He cleared 14 feet indoors last season, to chalk up a new record.

George Spitz, New York U. boy who outjumped everything in shorts last winter, will be back for his last crack. George, a senior now, will round out a collegiate career that has been sensational.

An old familiar face will be back when Joe McCluskey, former Fordham steeplechase and distance flash dons the colors of the New York Athletic Association to pound out the 5000-meter grind. His chief competition will come from little Jackie Ryan, the Manhattan boy who beat Joe one of the few times the shufflin' Irishman bowed in 1933.

A foreign threat will make his appearance in the lineup when Venzke, Cunningham, Bonthron and Hornbostel line up. He is Luigi Beccali, the dashing Italian who won the Olympic 1500-meter event in 1932 and, at the fag end of 1933, defeated the mighty Jack Lovelock, of New Zealand, world mile record holder.

Jockey Boots 300 Winners During 1933

Houston, Tex., Dec. 29—(.P)—Jackie Westrope has done what no other American jockey has accomplished since 1908—ride 300 winners in a year.

Yet this 17-year-old apprentice dismounted after achieving his ambition at Epsom Downs yesterday and quietly remarked:

"It was just another race."

The comment was characteristic of the Montana lad. He has been a sensation his first year as a jockey but has had little to say about it.

After riding "Outbound" to victory number 300 in the third race, Westrope came home a winner on "Gallop Along" in the fifth.

In 1908 Vincent Powers rode 324 winners. Powers was the last American jockey to pass the 300 mark until Westrope. The all-time record of 388 winners in a year was set in 1906 by W. Miller.

Westrope returned to the saddle yesterday upon termination of a 5-day suspension imposed on him for alleged rough riding in a race here.

Westrope started his long string of victories last January at Oriental Park in Havana, when he had the leg up on "Lerack." A short time afterward he was injured and unable to ride for more than a month.

Tilden and Hunter Meet in Net Tilt

Philadelphia, Dec. 29—(.P)—William T. (Big Bill) Tilden and Frank Hunter, his doubles partner and former Davis cup ally, clash today in one of the semi-final matches of the national indoor professional tennis championship tourney.

Tilden gained the semi-finals with a 6-1, 6-4, 6-3 victory over Emmett Pare of Chicago last night.

The other semi-finalists are Vincent Richards, defending champion and Bruce Barnes of Texas. Richards backhanded his way to victory yesterday over unexpectedly stiff opposition from Charles Wood of New York. Barnes downed Russell Harned of Newark, N. J., to gain the semi-finals while Hunter advanced on a default.

Sonnenberg Pins Chicago Wrestler

Green Bay, Wis., Dec. 29—(.P)—Gus Sonnenberg, the "Billy-Goat" wrestler, pinned Olaf Olson, Chicago heavyweight, in 23 minutes to win a one-fall windup match before 50 spectators here last night.

Buckets Goldenberg, Milwaukee, who played football with the Green Bay Packers last fall, defeated Joe Wolfe, Washington in nine minutes in the semi-windup.

Two other bouts, featuring Victor Soldat, Milwaukee, vs. Charley Peterson, Chicago, and Jimmy Demetral, Madison, vs. County Zarynoff, Russian, went 20 minutes each without a fall.

J. BISSIG HITS 262-PIN SCORE IN ELKS MAJORS

The Normington Laundry keglers of the Elks Major league last night started the second half of the Elks Major league race with a decisive three-game victory over the strong Warzinsko Plymouth five. The Normingtons rolled high team match score of the evening with their mark of 2,851 pins, and their 1,014 pins in their second game also copped the single game team score.

It was J. Bissig of the S. and S. Clothing company five that copped the scoring honors of the evening in the individual department, with a three game mark of 635 pins. His 262 single game mark in his second attempt of the evening was also the highest in that department, and he came extremely close to setting a new major league mark for high single game to take the place of the 266 set by Charlie Nash in the first half of the Major schedule. Bissig led the Clothing team to a two out of three game victory over the Rapids Sport Shop keglers. The latter team is at present roosting on the top of the Major standings. In the other match of the evening, the powerful Wood County Bank team came from behind to cop the match from the Berliner Beers by a two out of three game margin.

There were exceptional scores rolled last night, which substantiates the statement the Major leagues made that the weaker teams would be strengthened by the addition of a number of strong bowlers. The second half of the current Major race promises to be a strong one.

Wall Street Impressed by Optimistic Trade Reports

Market Dull For Trading Most of Day

BY VICTOR EUBANK
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 29—(AP)—Financial markets shuffled along a little wearily today notwithstanding brighter new year's vistas and the lessening of year-end tax selling pressure.

Stocks were exceptionally dull in the early hours, with frequent wide intervals between transactions.

The fact thatt he president, in his Wilson anniversary speech, did not touch on the administration's fiscal policies, was not surprising to Wall street which is inclined to believe that this matter may be left for the chief executive's message to congress. Favorable comment was heard, however, on the president's declaration that "the definite policy of the United States from now on is one opposed to armed intervention."

The financial district appeared to be giving more attention to business and industrial developments than to the monetary problem, although the latter is still considered of highest importance and details of the government's plans were being eagerly awaited.

Market commentators were impressed with the optimistic week-end trade reports. Dun and Bradstreet found the best volume of Christmas buying since 1928 in many distrites and observed that "cheerfulness over the outlook of is especially marked in country districts where the steady flow of checks to farmers co-operating with the A. A. A.. in the crop adjustment program has pushed buying power ahead."

CURB MARKET QUIET

New York, Dec. 29—(AP)—Curb market trading was quiet today. Tax sales for cash made frequent appearances on the tape, but fresh buying orders seemed less voluminous than yesterday and prices tended to draft in contrast with Thursday's strength.

Most of the gains were recorded by industrial and specialty issues. In these classifications, Great Atlantic and Pacific, Cord Corp., and Newmont Mining, among others, rose fractions to a couple of points. Swift and Co., eased slightly.

Utilities were steady to firm most of the day. American Gas gained around a point, but Electric Bond and Share had small fluctuations.

Oils traded quietly.

Gold mining issues improved moderately.

Grain Prices All Lower in Late Selling

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
(Associated Press Market Editor)

Chicago, Dec. 29—(AP)—With all grain markets scheduled for a holiday Monday, and with the Liverpool market closed tomorrow, year-end adjustment of accounts weakened wheat prices today.

Declines in prices carried wheat in Chicago down to more than 3 cents under yesterday's top. Warmer weather with snow was predicted for a large part of the United States winter wheat belt, and this tended to remove crop damage fears.

Wheat closed unstable, 2 1-2 @ 2 5-8 below yesterday's finish, Dec. 80 7-8 @ 81 1-8, May 83 1-2 @ 5-8, corn 1 1-4 @ 1 7-8 down, Dec. 43 7-8, May 49 7-8 @ 50 1-8, oats 7-8 @ 1 1-4 off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents decline.

ENFORCE RULE AGAINST FARM CWA WORKERS

the fact that farmers have been receiving C. W. A. employment, but with their discharge from civil works projects many farmers will undoubtedly apply for loans.

County directors have been advised, Mr. Utegaard states, to hold up new rural C. W. A. projects until the weeding out of ineligible workers has been completed. The divisional director declared that the county directors in no way should be criticized for the fact that men not classified as unemployed have been placed on civil works payrolls in the past, for their first big job was to put men to work quickly, with as little red tape as possible.

Ex-Service Ruling

The rule covering employment of ex-service men on civil works jobs has been modified by a telegram received by Mr. Utegaard from Madison this morning. Yesterday it was announced that no ex-service man receiving pension or disability compensation could receive pay from civil works funds, but this has been modified to permit those receiving compensation for disabilities incurred in combat with the enemy to be retained on the C. W. A. payroll. Preference in placement of men must be given to ex-service men who are qualified for civil works employment.

Explaining the duties of the divisional director's office, which is located in the post office here, Mr. Utegaard stated that it has been set up to act as a co-ordinating agency for all offices and functions of the whole C. W. A. program in Wood, Clark and Portage counties. His office does not replace the offices of the county directors, nor has any authority been taken away from them.

Not Employment Office

Mr. Utegaard's office provides staff engineering services which are available to all communities and all projects where needed. A field representative is maintained in each of the three counties, whose principal duty is to conduct investigations of the personnel on C. W. A. projects. The field worker in Wood county is T. A. Taylor, his title being personnel director. Also assisting Mr. Utegaard is the divisional purchasing agent, E. J. Carroll of Chicago, who will supervise the purchase of all materials used in civil works jobs in the three counties in this division. Mr. Carroll opened his office in Marshfield today.

Mr. Utegaard stressed the fact that his office is in no way an employment office, the hiring of men being entirely delegated to the National Re-employment offices.

WOMAN SLATED FOR CWA POST

MISS IRMA HOCHSTEIN, MILWAUKEE, TO DIRECT STATE CWA FOR WOMEN; ADVISE SAFETY LEADERS.

Madison, Wis.—(AP)—Miss Irma Hochstein, Milwaukee, is slated to become director of women's activities under the Civil Works administration in Wisconsin, it was learned here today.

Miss Hochstein is librarian at Marquette university and formerly served in a similar capacity in the legislative reference library here.

Her appointment has not yet been announced by Robert C. Johnson, state CWA administrator, but it was learned she is now engaged in setting up projects which are designed to give jobs to unemployed women who are eligible for CWA work.

Four Airport Jobs

A. D. Murphy, director of CWA airport improvement projects, announced four more projects have been approved, bringing the total to 16. The new projects and the money available for each, 75 per cent or more of which will go for labor, are:

La Crosse municipal airport, $31,839.

Kewaunee municipal airport, $11,000.

Fond du Lac municipal airport, $16,000.

Outagamie county airport at Appleton, $23,000.

Nine safety supervisors who will be sent to the nine CWA regional divisions where greatest hazards exist, attended a safety school here today under the supervision of R. C. Salisbury, state CWA safety engineer. Thirteen other supervisors will be sent into the field later, Salisbury said.

Cease Blasting

All blasting operations in CWA work in Wisconsin have been ordered halted, Salisbury said, until competent blasting operators are named and permits granted to county directors for such work.

The safety engineer expressed the belief that 95 per cent of CWA accidents can be controlled, that four per cent are due to defective machinery and equipment and one per cent unpreventable.

It was announced at Director Johnson's office that Lieut. Comm. Oscar Schwartz, Chicago, and seven naval officers, have completed a system of auditing and purchasing for Wisconsin CWA offices.

Hen Ignores Cold, Hatches 14 Chicks

Junction City—A hen belonging to Mrs. Yunger of North County Line presented her with a unique gift on Christmas day. Ignoring the fact that the temperature was below zero, the "biddy" hatched out 14 little chicks which Mrs. Yunger found when she went into the barn Christmas morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schroeder and Bert Chapen of Wisconsin Rapids attended the Christmas program at the Turner school Friday evening.

Robert Knuth and son were Sunday dinner and supper guests at the Wilbur Ott home.

Mr. Nelson of Minneapolis spent Christmas with his children, Lavern and William, at the Louis Hansen home.

William Boetcher, who has been very ill, is now able to be around again.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller spent Sunday evening at the Edward Brehm home.

27 Senators Organize For Silver Battle

Washington—(AP)— An intensive campaign for remonetization of silver was as ured today when 27 senators went on record for free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver.

Eighteen senators—14 Democrats, 3 Republicans and one Farmer-Labor—attended a conference called by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), a 16 to 1 bi-metallism advocate, and unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"We favor bi-metallism—the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at a ratio to be established by law."

Nine other senators, eight Democrats, and one Republican, sent word to the meeting they were for the proposition.

Wheeler, announcing the results of the conference to newspapermen, said he would introduce his bill for remonetization of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold on the opening day of congress.

He predicted the senate would approve the proposal and the house would follow suit if a vote could be obtained in that body.

Department of commerce figures disclosed today that the nation has the largest unfavorable trade balance in silver in its history.

While official explanation was lacking, it was said privately by federal experts that speculative expectation of some action beneficial to silver largely accounted for a triple gain in the value of silver imports over last year.

The senate silver bloc was called today to formulate a program in the face of President Roosevelt's recent approval of the purchasing of new silver at 64 1-2 cents an ounce, a move interpreted in some quarters as intended to head off any free coinage movement.

Among senators at the meeting or sending proxies were F. Ryan Duffy, Wisconsin; Borah, Idaho; Frazier and Nye, North Dakota; Long, Louisiana; Capper, Kansas; Shipstead, of Minnesota.

7 May Ask for P. O. Job in Marshfield

Marshfield, Wis.— Seven persons, including one woman, have secured application forms containing information regarding the examination for the office of postmaster in Marshfield. Applications for the position closed yesterday.

Those who applied for the forms include Fred B. Rhyner, incumbent; T. F. McDill, Atty. C. B. Edwards, E. H. Carlotte, R. Forell, J. Dennerbauer, and a woman who did not reveal her name to the board of civil service examiners.

The position of postmaster in Marshfield pays an annual salary of $3,300.

YOUR CHILDREN

by Olive Roberts Barton

Put Aside Fear of Losing Child's Affections in Disciplining Him

Nature arranges many things, and among them probably is that very thing shouted down so often by child experts — the desire of a mother to hold her child's love by humoring him.

Somehow or other I believe it must be meant for a good purpose or it would not be there.

At the same time there is something else to be considered. Civilization does something to us. The higher we go in intelligence and education the more sensitive becomes the nervous make-up, and normal emotion is exaggerated.

What Culture Brings

Compare the average high strung woman of any cultured nation with her savage sister. One a sensitive violin capable of a million tunes, the other a primitive instrument limited to a few.

Thus constructed, our civilized mother is vulnerable to hurt much too easily. She fears too quickly and goes to great extremes to preserve what she holds dear. The dearest thing to her is the love of her child for her. She puts it even above her love for him.

I do not think that children love their mothers altogether as we are often told, but I think they are selfish and their mothers seem most convenience and comfort. This does enter into it, of course, but I give all children credit for a higher emotion than that. They love their mothers because they love them, that's all.

Mother's Attitude

Therefore, I think there is less danger of a mother being a little unreasonable than she may think. She must put aside this exaggerated fear of losing her boy's or girl's affection, become a little imperious at times and take the law into her hands. She will have herself to fight, of course, but if she stops and reasons thus she will see there is small risk. "I cannot go on letting Junior have his own way. As he grows older he will respect me more because he respects himself more. At any rate it is better to sacrifice a little of his devotion to me now if it means that he will be a better man. Anyway there is not a chance in a thousand that it will make any difference in his real love at all."

There is one thing I think that does make a difference. That is age. A mother's control should be put to work early. When a child is older he is more likely to resent any change of system on his mother's part.

Another One to Explain

Know Your Bridge

PLAYER TRUSTS WOMAN

Feels She Wouldn't Misguide Him by Breaking a Rule in Leading Fourth Best—and She Doesn't!

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

By WM. E. McKENNEY
Secretary, American Bridge League

Good bridge players sometimes "work on" personalities. For example, in today's hand, played in the national contract team-of-four championship event at Cincinnati, the opening leader against S. Garton Churchill of New York was a woman. Therefore, when she opened the four of clubs against a three no trump contract, Churchill counted that as a fourth best from her longest and strongest suit, as women are more prone to make honest leads than are men.

With the four of clubs opening, the seven was played from dummy, East went in with the nine, and Churchill won the trick with the ace. The rule of eleven told him that either West held five clubs or East had nothing left but the deuce.

South's next play was the ace of spades, followed by the deuce of spades, West going in with the king.

West was smart enough to put the declarer to the guess immediately on the clubs, leading the six of clubs; but Churchill took the finesse.

The three good spades from dummy now were cashed, West discarding a diamond. Churchill discarded a diamond and two hearts. East dropped two diamonds and a heart.

He now played a small diamond to the ace and then led the five of clubs, winning in dummy with the queen. East dropped the eight of hearts.

The king of clubs was played, and East was squeezed. If he dropped a heart, the ace and queen would be good, so he must let go a diamond.

Declarer did the same, and now led the jack of diamonds, throwing East in the lead, and East was forced to lead away from his king and ten of hearts. Mr. Churchill held the queen and x, dummy holding the ace and x.

A beautifully played hand — giving Mr. Churchill five odd.

Today's Contract Problem

The contract is six clubs by South. West's opening lead is the queen of spades. What is the best way to play the hand to give the opponents a chance to make a mistake and not cash both their aces?

FRENCH TIGHTEN IMPORT QUOTAS ON FARM GOODS

NEW DECREE WILL BE THREE-FOLD TRADE WEAPON; GOVERNMENT RAISES IMPORT TAXES ALSO.

Paris—(AP)—The government today promulgated a three-ply trade weapon by tightening import restrictions with three-quarters of the quotas reserved for countries favoring French exports.

Agricultural quotas, as set for the first three months of 1934, revealed heavier restrictions on imports, an extension of the quota system, and the taxation of import licenses.

The full effect of the restrictions on the United States will not be known until each country's share is allotted.

The general effects, as seen at present, are:

1.—To limit new products by enlarging the quota system.

2.—To saddle imports with new license taxes.

3.—To exact concessions by utilizing three-quarters of the quotas for tariff bargaining.

Tax on Apples

An import license tax of 175 francs per 220 pounds of pears and 125 francs per 220 pounds of apples was fixed- about $3.80 and $2 respectively.

Lard and other cooking fats were brought under the quota system, with lard taxed at 80 francs to each 220 pounds, or about $1.28.

This development came on the heels of word last night that restrictions on American imports of fine woods and a large number of products exempt heretofore were included in plans for extending the quota system.

The move was decided on, it was said, as a direct outgrowth of the abolition of the 15 per cent surtax on British imports.

Separate Quotas Later

The quotas are global, it was announced, the shares of various countries to be specified later.

The apple and pear quota was fixed at 24,200 tons for the first quarter of 1934—an increase of 11,000 tons over last quarter and 6,177 tons over the first quarter of 1933.

The new cooking fat quotas, by tons, include:

Lard 1,826; suet 258; margarines 2,871; other animal fats 885; vegetable oils 6,545; vegetable fats 280.

The oil cake quota was set at 33,000 tons.

The global quotas for meats, eggs, milk, and other products is generally higher than for the last quarter but lower than for the first quarter of 1933.

Triple Meat Quota

The frozen beef quota was tripled to 1,650 tons, mainly for the army and navy; frozen mutton was raised to 1,650 tons from 1,210.

Other quotas are:

Fresh chilled pork, 1,100 tons compared to 825 tons for the last quarter;

Mutton, 660 tons compared to 495;

Condensed milk, 825 tons compared to 261.

Oats, rye and buckwheat are missing from the quotas but corn is slightly increased to 33,000 tons and barley to 160,000.

A new tax of 300 francs to 220 pounds is imposed on separated eggs.

Johnson to Probe Banks' Plan for Service Charge

Washington— (AP) —Discussing plans of New York banks to impose heavy service charges on checking accounts under the new bankers' code, Hugh S. Johnson today indicated to newspapermen he would give these proposals careful scrutiny before approving them.

"If the banks want to commit suicide," Johnson replied to a suggestion that the New York proposals appeared excessive. "No one is going to worry very much about it."

Protect Public

He said, however, that his chief interest was for the protection of the public.

At the same time the NRA chief said W. H. Davis, national compliance director, had informed him that charges lodged by William Green against Henry Ford, alleging code violation, were not wholly supported by the affidavits presented and required more original proof before the government could go ahead with any prosecution.

Johnson said the additional proof would be sought.

Johnson Shocked

Johnson also said he was "rather shocked" by a new charge made by Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, that unemployment in November increased out of seasonal proportion and that the responsibility lay with employers who have been back-sliding on their pledges of supporting re-employment.

Other NRA developments included:

The construction code, on the president's desk since before Christmas, will not be signed until after the first of the year because of labor requests for opportunity to present new data.

The newspaper and printing codes also may be delayed some time before the chief executive is snowed under by pre-congress business.

Berry Accepts Post

George L. Berry, president of the Pressman's union, has definitely accepted Johnson's offer of a place as division administrator, one of the six highest in the NRA, taking on duties which so far have not been entrusted to any labor man.

Johnson said, however, Berry would have to give up membership on the national labor board.

The NRA head also told newsmen he regarded the situation on the aluminum code materially changed by a recent court decision in Connecticut in which a jury found the Aluminum Company of America was not a monopoly.

A small minority of the industry had been demanding that the code specifically recognize the existence of a monopoly for the purpose of guaranteeing an equal price to independent manufacturers and the subsidiaries of the Mellon-dominated concern.

Pittsville Child Hurt In Wringer

Pittsville, Wis.— Severe bruises one one arm were suffered by Ronald, the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Zieher, Wednesday morning when he attempted to run a handkerchief through an electric wringer. The wringer caught his hand and drew his arm through the rollers up to the elbow.

His sister, Dorothy, hearing the little boy's screams, shut off the switch. No bones were broken, but the arm was severely bruised.

Mrs. Zieher had left the room to hang up some clothes. Ronald noticed a handkerchief she had dropped on the floor, rinsed it out, turned on the wringer switch and was putting the handkerchief into the wringer when the accident happened.

WOODS DENIES RAINEY CHARGE

HEAD OF PACKERS INSTITUTE DECLARES INDUSTRY IS NOT MAKING PRODUCER PAY NEW TAX.

Washington, Dec. 29—(AP)—William Whitfield Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, today denied Speaker Rainey's charge that the packers were not co-operating in the administration's program and asserted that the price to producers was determined by what the public was able to pay for meat and by-products.

In a statement, he said packers perform the entire function of dressing livestock and processing and distributing its products at an average profit of a fraction of a cent a pound.

"There is little in these profits to suggest packers could have paid producers more," he added.

Employment High

"The packing industry," he said, "is co-operating in the recovery program by operating under the approval temporary labor code adopted August 1, in accordance with the president's request to industry. As a result of the code, the number of employes in the packing industry has increased by more than 16 per cent; payrolls have increased more than 20 per cent. Employment in the industry is now above normal.

"Congressman Rainey implies packers forced livestock prices down. This is not the case. Whether individuals or the government operate the packing industry, the price of livestock will continue to be determined by the prices consumers can pay for meat products.

"Meat is perishable and must be sold promptly for what consumers are able to pay. Neither the government nor any other agency can make consumers buy meat at a given price level."

"Confirmation"

Washington, Dec. 29—(AP)—Speaker Rainey today said he had received a number of telegrams confirming his statement yesterday that the meat packers were forcing producers to pay the processing tax, thereby "openly defying" the president's recovery program.

"I don't know whether the government has the authority to take over the packing plants, but I would vote for a bill to give that authority," said the speaker.

In Justice Court

Tom and Gilford Henchel, both of Nekoosa, charged with dance hall disturbance and disorderly conduct at Gray's pavilion Monday, December 25, were arrested by Sheriff Martin Bey yesterday morning on the complaint of S. W. Topping, dance hall inspector, and brought before Judge C. J. Randall. They entered pleas of not guilty and the case was set for trial January 3, at 10 a. m. Bail of $100 each was furnished.

Robert Magee, this city, charged with the abandonment and non-support on November 1, 1933, and continuously thereafter of an illegitimate minor child in destitute circumstances, was arrested yesterday morning by Sheriff Martin Bey and brought before Judge C. J. Randall. The defendant waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to circuit court. Bail set at $200 was not furnished, and the defendant was committed to the county jail until late Thursday afternoon, at which time the bail was furnished by the defendant's father.

Formulate Plans For Squires Cage Tournament Here

Preliminary arrangements for the third annual Wisconsin Columbian Squires State basketball tournament which is to be held in the Lincoln field house here on February 23, 24 and 25 were made last night when Emmett Gaulke, grand knight of the local council of the Knights of Columbus appointed the various committee chairmen to handle phases of the tournament.

The appointment of chairman was made at a regular meeting of the Knights of Columbus in the Catholic Societies' hall. Stanley "Pudge" Stark was named chairman of the game scheduling and officials' committee, L. J. Barrett and A. A. Ritchay were named to head the housing committee and Donald G. Berard was placed in charge of transportation. Other committee chairmen named were: Banquet, T. H. Molepske, trophies, Rev. Fr. J. F. Kundinger, finance and tickets, J. L. Reinhart and R. A. Love; publicity, George T. Frechette, and registration, Ed Johnson and Byron B. Conway.

It is expected that sixteen teams from various parts of the state will be entered in the state tournament. Registration headquarters will be located at the Elks' club and the visiting players are expected to be housed by residents of the city. Last year the tournament was held at Beaver Dam.

So They Should

Hastings, Neb.—"Gems" from the examination papers of Hastings school children are keeping local school teachers smiling.

In the papers the teachers "learned" that George Westinghouse was the first president of the United States; that a squab is an Indian woman, that a grouse is a gruff old man; and that in preparing lettuce for the table one should wash off the bugs, worms and other livestock.

A Smart Animal

Minot, N. D.—Game wardens jailed both Charles J. Johnson and "King," his pet coyote, but the coyote proved he was a smart animal by escaping.

Johnson recently was sentenced to five days in jail on a charge of trapping without a license after the coyote had dug out a skunk.

He was not jailed then, but yesterday wardens charged the coyote had been catching game birds for him. Johnson denied that, but admitted he had trained the animal to catch smaller birds.
